“The Butterfly”Cantors Lauren Adesnik, Sharon Hordes, and David Lipp, with pianist Jeffrey Jamner

Only I never saw another butterfly	For seven weeks, I've lived in here,
Another butterfly, Another butterfly	Penned up inside this ghetto.
The last, the very last,	But I have found my people here.
So richly, brightly, dazzlingly yellow.	The dandelions care for me
Perhaps if the sun's tears would sing against a white stone	and the white chestnut candles in court.
Such, such a yellow is carried lightly way up high.	Only I never saw another butterfly,
It went away, it went away,	Another butterfly, another butterfly.
I'm sure because it looked to kiss the world goodbye

Lyrics based on the poem by Pavel Friedman, a Jewish prisoner at Teresienstadt concentration camp, who was murdered two years later after being deported

El Malei Rachamim for Yom HaShoah musical setting by Faith Steinsnyder,
In Memory of our community's family members who Cantor Lauren Adesnik, with pianist Jeffrey Jamner perished or survived the Shoah

G-d full of compassion You who dwell on high, Grant perfect rest beneath the wings of Sh'chinah, in the heights of the holy and pure, shining as the skies	on the six million of our brothers and sisters who were murdered for the sanctification of G-d's name. G-d of mercy, shield them under your wings forever and bind their souls in the bond of life. G-d is their inheritance, and they shall rest in peace in their resting place. And we say, Amen.

Mourner's Kaddish Translation

May the great Name of G-d be exalted and sanctified, throughout the world, which G-d has created according to G-d's will. May G-d's dominion be established in your lifetime and in your days, and in the lifetime of the entire household of Israel, swiftly and in the near future; and say, Amen.
